LIVER PILLS

FOR THE CURE OF

Hepatitis, or Liver Complaint,

DYSPEPSIA AND SICK HEADACHE.

Symptoms of a Diseased Liver.

PAIN in the right side, under the edge of the ribs, increases on pressure; sometimes it is sharp, sometimes it is dull; the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side; sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder blade, and it frequently extends to the top of the shoulder, and is sometimes mistaken for rheumatism in the arm. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; the bowels in the morning are constipated, and in the evening lax; the head is troubled with pain, accompanied with a dull, heavy sensation in the back part. There is generally a considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. A slight, dry cough is sometimes an attendant symptom, and is followed by a sweat and debility; he is easily startled, his feet are cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensation of the skin; his spirits are low; and although he is satisfied that exercise would be beneficial to him, yet he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it. In fact, he distrusts every remedy, several of which he has tried, and the disease but cases have occurred where few of them existed, yet examination of the body, after death, has shown the LIVER to have been externally deranged.

—A protest against the Alabama sling comes from every portion of the state, which causes the small boy to laugh in his sleeve.

—The samples from three hundred boxes of cotton were accidentally burned recently in the office of General M. A. Stovall, of Augusta.

—A colored gambling den was raided in Macon last Saturday night and thirteen men colored mokes lifted temporarily out of temptation.

—We noted last week that an attempt had been made to burn the dwelling-house of Mr. N. P. Porter, of Crawford. It turned out that a negro woman who lives on Mr. Porter's place induced her little daughter to make the attempt.

—A Captain Hunter, who passed himself off as the first officer of the schooner T. E. Lancaster, supposed to be lying at Tybee, succeeded in borrowing several sums of money from various merchants. It was shortly afterwards discovered that there was no schooner of that name at Tybee, and no Captain Hunter in the village.

—The American Republican is informed that on last Wednesday Mr. Charles Porter, of Smyrna, and a negro boy were shot and wounded yesterday. The negro boy was recovered, but prosecution dropped through lack of evidence. The negro boy, however, remained in the hospital until his recovery, and was then sent home again.

—A colored man, who had been shot in the right temple of the negro and killing him instantly.

—Oglethorpe (Lexington) Echo. A few days ago one of the most unprincipled and unfeeling attempts we have ever known was made to poison an entire family in Lexington. For prudential reasons we suppress names. It appears that a colored woman, who had been shot in the kitchen, had stolen a large sum of money from her employers, which was recovered, but prosecution dropped through lack of evidence. The negro boy, however, remained in the hospital until his recovery, and was then sent home again.

—A colored man, who had been shot in the right temple of the negro and killing him instantly.

—AUGUE AND FEVER.

Dr. C. McLane's LIVER PILLS, IN CASES OF AUGUE AND FEVER, when taken with Quinine, are productive of the most happy results. No better cathartic can be used, preparatory to, or after taking Quinine. We would advise all who are afflicted with this disease to give them a FAIR TRIAL.

For all simple derangements, and as a simple purgative, they are unequalled.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

The genuine are never sugar coated. Every box has a red wax seal on the lid, with the impression DR. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS.

The genuine McLane's LIVER PILLS bear the signatures of C. McLane, and Fleming Bros. on the wrappers.

Insist upon having the genuine Dr. McLane's LIVER PILLS, prepared by Fleming Bros. of Pittsburgh, Pa., the market being full of imitations of the name McLane, spelled differently but same pronunciation.

SIDEWALK NOTES.

—The mule meat market is flourishing.

—A full attendance at the "Kettle Drum" to night.

—The "Kettle Drum" will be a novel and interesting entertainment.

—Evening concerts by the post band are suspended until summer.

—The city-hall park is filled every afternoon with the playing of boys.

—All of the stores that advertise seem to be doing a live business.

—It looks as though we are going to have a wet spell.

—Merchants will soon go north to purchase their spring goods.

—Gardening will soon be the order of the day.

—Several northern capitalists are in the city on a voyage of discovery.

—The recorder's court was very largely attended yesterday.

—There is much complaint about the condition of the drivers near our city.

—Marriages do not seem to be as numerous as they were a month ago.

—Old debts are not in love with this kind of weather.

—Kinball will have to bring out his watering carts again.

—Freights from the west are increasing very materially.

—Japanese are valued at fifty cents and one dollar in Atlanta.

—The weather is quite brisk, and has been so for the past month.

—The theatrical season is not over yet by a good deal. Nearly a dozen companies have dates with Mr. Detive.

—Twelve car loads of mules reached this city yesterday morning from the west, and were sold.

—Mr. Andrew Stewart, chairman of the committee on streets, is managing the streets with a gold head of skill.

—Large quantities of wheat straw are being brought into this city every day and sold at great prices.

—Several Atlanta gentlemen who attended the Savannah races returned home yesterday.

—Sunday last the city was filled with commercial tourists, sometimes rudely called "tourists."

—It is conceded that Decatur street is in need of repairs than any other thoroughfare in the city.

—The coal trade of Atlanta has been very large the present season. Almost daily a score of coal cars come into the city.

—If you continue to be warn we may expect to see the trees putting out plenty of leaves.

—The city was alive with people yesterday. Every body seemed to be out on the streets.

—No hand organ or professor with a monkey has been in our city for several months past.

—Mr. Andy W. English, a well known speculator in mule meat, has recently bought a fine stall, from Kentucky, a promising breeding home.

—The Irving club will hold a meeting at the residence of Judge Jackson, Peachtree-street, to-night. A full attendance is expected.

—Colonel Adair's sale will give notice of the sale of these beautiful Washington street lots this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

—Adams Bumford and lady will sing at the Kirtland Hall entertainment. The English quartet will also add to the pleasure of the evening.

—Bell Hill, the third year old race horse of Colgate W. Bell, of this city, has won and will rage a come out ahead in a race at Savannah Saturday next.

—The Turner has been taken off the street lamp on Dryer street near Mrs. Bell's boarding house and in consequence there is a good deal of indignation among the citizens in that direction.

—A New York drummer applied at one of the livery stables a few days ago for a buggy and a fast horse. He remarked that he would not train and was put off by the recorder.

—Mrs. Henrietta Chauhan played at Griflin Saturday night. The company passed through Atlanta on the same day. What have we to say? That she should give us the "go by" in this manner. Professor Taylour, the authoress, actress, etc., etc., was with the company.

A LESSON IN COOKING.

Miss Carson's Primary Class in Soup, Liver-Rolls and Coffee.

New York World.

A half-dozen girls, wrapped up in red shawls, and with cheeks glowing from their walk in the keen air, filed into the areas under the rooms of the New York cooking school, No. 35 East Seventeenth street, near Union square. They had come from above Fortieth street and represented half the class of Forty-second street mission school, attached to the Rev. Dr. Vincent's (Park avenue) church.

"Come right into the kitchen, girls," Miss Carson said, leading the way. "We are here to learn how to cook. We have a room of our own at No. 35, and a large armful of front row chairs, which had been reserved for the class, was a long counter with a pair of scales, some spice boxes, and jars of flour. There was a range at one side of the room behind the counter, and two small eating tables at the other side. Six stools were united and six white aprons were immediately put on.

"Now, if you of you will come behind the counter with me, we will make some beef and vegetable soup," said Miss Carson, "with a cold point of bacon, onions, carrots, turnips, and turnip tops, each garnished with pickled onions and mustard, and a slice of bacon, well seasoned, an onion, a piece of celery, and two table-spoons of tomatoes—if you have time."

"Is that only a pound of meat?" one of the visitors asked, as the square cut bits of meat were cut up in a heap under the knives of the girls.

"To be sure, it is," Miss Carson replied, with a tinge of sarcasm. "It is the neck, and, as you see, is nearly all lean meat; it cost only six cents."

"Oh, my," exclaimed a practical young girl, "I never heard of such a thing before." Her friends appeared to range in age from sixteen to twenty years. All of them were fine-looking, and none, showing a trace of want of training or activity.

"What is that?" asked the leader of the party, in a tone of surprise.

"That is a good account of what you will find in the kitchen," said Major Cook, "but what are you going to eat? I have got you a good meal, but I have no time to take care of you."

"I am afraid I will have to go to the station-house keeper," said the girl.

"Well, I can give you a night's lodgings, but what are you going to eat? I have got you a good meal, but I have no time to take care of you."

"I am afraid I will have to go to the station-house keeper," said the girl.
